History

In 1992, Bret Chandler purchased an old house at 1601 S. Harvard Ave. in Tulsa, OK. Bret was known for his backyard BBQ skills and wanted to share his BBQ with his fellow Tulsans. He converted the house to a restaurant and Rib Crib was born! There weren't many luxuries (including air-conditioning) but that didn't keep Rib Crib fans away!

Rib Crib's popularity grew and the second Rib Crib opened in Broken Arrow, Ok 19 months later. More restaurants followed and today there are over 60 Rib Cribs in seven states- with many more in the pipeline. Primarily casual dining, Rib Crib has ventured into the fast-casual and the quick-serve markets to maintain its market share amidst a rapidly changing demographic of BBQ fans.

Rib Crib continues to evolve and uses its competition BBQ team –The Rib Crib PigMen- to develop and test new flavor profiles and cooking techniques at KCBS sanctioned BBQ competitions across the United States. Those flavors and techniques are often implemented in Rib Cribs everywhere. The succulent, hickory-smoked meats served in Rib Crib restaurants are truly award-winning, competition BBQ.

Brands grow strong when they're rooted in strategy and soaked in creativity. Wenzel's mission is to promote brand strength—at any point during your company's journey—via the powerhouse combo of creative + strategy. Whether it's branding, packaging, digital marketing, or retail point-of-sale, we use rock-solid graphic design principles to creatively solve problems and drive the success of your company. Not only do our tactics help ensure your brand will grow—they help ensure that it will thrive.

Design is more than a process. It's a mindset. Today's consumers expect companies to consistently provide well-crafted, nuanced experiences. Therefore, our goal is to integrate solid design with details that don't distract, but rather strengthen the key message surrounding your product or service. To achieve this objective, Wenzel relies on a fine-tuned system of inquiry, information, and intuition.

Inquiry – Our process always starts with questions—whether face-to-face, over the phone, or across a screen—we want to get to know the project, but we also want to get to know you.

Information – Once we've established the basic parameters, we can begin the research phase. We analyze data, trends, and related fields—anything that can help us better solve your problem—in order to make informed design decisions throughout the project.

Intuition – There's a reason we're called "creatives." Each member of the Wenzel crew has developed a keen sense for what works and what doesn't. Whether it's a design element, word choice, or content strategy, we trust our creative instincts. Take a look at our work and you will, too.
